Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 7 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shirai et al (6,411,641) in view of Jp 06-092796.

The Shirai et al reference teaches a film and a method of making the film. A melt of a bismuth substituted magnetic garnet is first made. A substrate is caused to contact the melt and a film is grown by the liquid phase epitaxy method. The film is a bismuth substituted magnetic garnet single crystal and can be used as a Faraday Rotator, note entire reference and specifically col. 4. The sole difference between the instant claims and the prior art is the lattice change in the growth direction. However, the Jp 06-092796 reference teaches that when growing films by epitaxial methods to increase the lattice constant and decrease cracking, note translated abs. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the Shiari et al reference by the teachings of the Jp 06-092796 reference to change the lattice constant and the amount of change in order to prevent cracks and damages in the growing film, which would prevent the use of the film in any devices.

Response to Applicants' Arguments

Applicants' arguments of July 21, 2004, concerning the rejection of claims 1 to 4 have been considered and are deemed persuasive. However, newly added claims 7 and 8 are rejected in this Office Action

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
